Two adults charged with supplying liquor to minors in connection with teen's death

A 35-year-old Minden woman has been charged with knowingly selling liquor to a person under 19 as a result of the investigation into the death of 15-year-old Bill Guzik.

A second adult has been charged with supplying liquor to a minor but can not be identified because their identity could lead to the identity of a young offender.

In the early hours of June 16, the Ingoldsby teenager drove a stolen car into the stone wall at the Minden cemetery. He died as a result of his injuries. His passenger, a 16-year-old Minden teenager, was injured.

The 16-year-old has been charged with theft, possession of stolen property and taking an automobile without the owner's consent under the Criminal Code as well as purchasing and consuming liquor while under 19 years of age under the Liquor Licence Act.

Police determined that the two teenagers involved in the accident had been supplied liquor on June 15 and that alcohol may have been a factor in the accident and the events leading to the accident.

Hunt for doctors takes aim at students

by SHERYL LOUCKS
Times staff

Progress is being made in the hunt for doctors.

Two medical students having already been contacted, Dick Charron, told his fellow Haliburton Highlands Health Services board members on Thursday.

Both have expressed an interest but both have schooling to complete before any serious negotiation can begin. One of the students grew up here.

Meanwhile, a strategic planning retreat is being planned for November 14 and 15 in an attempt to bring together the municipalities, tourism sector and community groups to come up with a collaborative strategy to attract and retain doctors.

Charron estimates they need five or six more physicians to adequately meet the needs of the county. There are currently eight doctors in Haliburton and two in Minden. Lynne Johnston, director of acute and ambulatory care, says they are facing a huge need after December when they will not be sure how to cover all of the legislated shifts at the two sites.

"We're not out of the woods yet. The Haliburton physicians are writing a model for caring for orphan patients (those without doctors) and they want to be compensated," says Johnston. "My problem now is getting patients back from Peterborough and Lindsay for rehabilitation and our doctors don't want the extra work."

Charron outlined some of the strategies they are using to find

His committee is trying to use the tax rolls to locate doctors who may already cottage here to send letters to asking them if they are interested in setting up a practice here.

"We are trying to develop our website that it will be picked up in job searches," says Charron.

He says no one can beat them when it comes to cost arrangements in a clinic.

Peter White says no one on the committee was happy with the idea of offering a condo, trips south, a car or other such perks as part of a package.

"It's not just a board responsibility. We have to ask the community what they're willing to do. It's a question of where do you end and where do you start," says White.

Jeanne Anthon commented you also can not offer an incoming doctor enormous perks without including existing doctors; it's not fair and they need to be retained.

"We need to be creative and ask the community to be creative. We need to do things like try to help a doctor's spouse gain employment too," says Dave Coulson.

Hyland Crest corrects problems identified in ministry audit

by SHERYL LOUCKS
Times staff

Three unmet provincial standards at Hyland Crest were quickly addressed by staff and administration and the Ministry of Health and Long Term Care is now satisfied with the work being done at the facility, says Keith Sansford, chief executive officer.

During a recent Haliburton Highlands Health Services board meeting, Sansford discussed the "findings" of an annual review this summer by a ministry auditor.

He explained that in the area of nursing, the auditor found there was not sufficient on-going surveillance of infection and there was not adequate monitoring or documentation of each resident's medication response.

Sansford says this does not mean there was a total absence of monitoring but as far as the province is concerned, if what has been done is not written down on a chart it did not happen.

To correct the problem, Sansford says they have submitted an action plan that was accepted by the ministry.

"We met the standard almost immediately," he added.

Another finding was with regards receiving medication and treatment as per physician's orders. Sansford says they have changed procedures to address this problem. There has been staff training, an evaluation process and patient treatment has been assigned to a staff person per each shift along with the creation of a separate treatment binder.

"In any review there are always recommendations for improvement," says Sansford.

He also said there were many commendations including the residents in planning.

Board member Dave Coulson said he was impressed with the improvements that have already happened at Hyland Crest. He noted that the significant findings of last year did not reoccur this year. He suggested they do something to recognize the hard work of staff.

Sansford said a thanks and congratulation memo was sent to the Highland Wood staff because there were no findings at that facility.

The board agreed to an operational review of both facilities that will begin in the long term as they continue to search for ways to be financially efficient.

Rates increase for 'grandfathered' Hyland Crest residents

by SHERYL LOUCKS
Times staff

Hyland Crest residents paying a reduced daily care rate under a grandfathered clause will now have to pay full fare.

The Haliburton Highlands Health Services board members decided at their recent meeting to charge only the provincially legislated rates. Jack Brezina, board chair, put a motion on the table to change the rates for 10 residents of Hyland Crest, whose rates had been grandfathered by Haliburton County when they were running the institution.

Cathy Outram, financial director, explained that in 1999 the county grandfathered the rates for a number of residents because the province had doubled the daily rates. The county chose to keep those residents at $4 a day instead of $8 for semi-private rooms and at $9 versus $18 for a private room. Outram says rates are provincially legislated and triple HHHS has been eating the difference of $15,000 to $17,000 a year.

Keith Sansford, HHHS chief executive officer, says the planning resources committee was recommending to the board they bring the rates up to the legislated level retroactive to Sept. 1.

Jean Anthon, a board member, explained it was felt by county council at that time that the rate increase would create too much hardship on the residents. Peter White, another board member, asked if it still would.

Sansford insists they are running an empathetic organization and would never allow a resident to be moved to an unsuitable location because of financial considerations. Outram says the residents affected, who are in private accommodation, tend not to be those under financial constraints and could be moved to semi-private if they could not afford the increase. She also said residents had been forewarned the rates were likely to change in September.

Sansford's concern is Hyland Crest already has more requests to change from private to semi-private than they can handle right now. Betty Moffatt quickly added it is a frustrating situation where residents try to jump the often long waiting lines for semi-private or basic accommodation beds by saying they will take a private bed but then three months later requesting a move to cheaper accommodation.

Outram says she is writing a policy now that will force anyone trying to "jump the cue" to go back through the Community Care Access Centre process and will have to wait for an available bed like everyone else. She noted there will be a clause that will give her the discretion to allow a move in real circumstances of unexpected financial hardship.

"This is a significant issue for private care everywhere. We are not here to make a profit. This is a compassionate institution," says Sansford.

Let the games begin!

Upgrades continue on Hwy 35 and 118

by ALLISON TAYLOR
Times staff

The following is a brief report of items discussed at the September 25 meeting of Minden Hills council.

Motorists will encounter a lot of highway construction in area in the immediate and not so immediate future.

Paul Lecoarer, the Ministry of Transportation's manager of construction for the northern region, made a short visit to Minden Hills council last week to update the township on MTO's plans to upgrade both Highway 35 and Highway 118.

Highway 118 west from the Highway 35 junction at Carnarvon will likely be the first project. The provincial government is investing $2.3 million to resurface Highway 118 and install paved shoulders in the Carnarvon area, some time within the next eight to 12 months.

"Repaving this section of highway is a strategy to extend the life of the pavement for another 12 to 15 years and a low cost," he said.

The contract was awarded to Miwel Construction Limited of Stouffville. The project includes resurfacing Highway 118 from Highway 35 in Carnarvon westerly for about 23 km, in order to extend the service life of the highway.

"Keeping Highway 118 in good repair is a wise investment of tax dollars and has long-term benefits for the community," said Haliburton-Victoria-Brock MPP Chris Hodgson in a recent press release. "The work will ensure the long-term reliability of the highway and a higher level of safety for local drivers, cottagers and tourists."

Another job the MTO will address is Highway 35 south of Minden for approximately 20 km. On this section of roadway not only with the highway be repaved, but the shoulders will be widened and paved and some guard-rails will be added.

"The shoulders are fairly narrow and paving will provide a safer place for people to ride bikes or to go for walks," Lecoarer said. "It will also reduce maintenance costs of that section of highway."

Lecoarer said he couldn't provide any firm dates on construction or to that section of the highway than have an accident in the future. He said he was concerned for south-bound motorists who stopped at the red, not knowing that northbound traffic had a green light.

Lecoarer, Jeff Hueston, area construction and Neil Markle, contract control officer, all told council they would look into its concerns.

Carnarvon Lumber

Although Alf Helleman has submitted a site plan proposal for a new Carnarvon Lumber and Landscape Centre on Highway 35 just southeast of Highway 118, the project isn't ready to move forward yet.

Still awaiting approval from the Health Unit, the Ministry of Transportation and a thumbs up sign from both the Minden Hills and Stanhope Fire Departments, Helleman was at council last week looking for approval in principle of his proposal so that he could continue clearing the land and getting ready for the next stage.

Helleman said that he has been in contact with both fire departments; he was just waiting for the final word on whether he needed 20,000 or 15,000 gallon holding tank in case of fire.

Even with the fire departments close to an agreement, councillors were still uncertain if they should be approving any proposal that has yet to meet the Health Unit's and MTO's satisfaction.

"Can we not pass the proposal in principle to show the municipality is agreeable to the idea? I'm all for it," said Councillor Ingram Wessell.

Deputy-Reeve Jim McMahon said that if the council shows its support for the project that the MTO might be prompted to move forward on approving it.

Council told Helleman that it supported the project in principle.

COUNCIL BRIEFS

tell the council when the project would be put to tender until the MTO was finished the engineering phase of the project.

Councillor Bill Obee asked Lecoarer if there would be any more construction along the Highway 35 bypass in Minden. Several times this summer portions of the road have been torn up and repaved.

Lecoarer said the road would stay as it is, citing problems with asphalt as the reason for the constant need to rip up and repave portions along the bypass.

"We weren't pleased with the work quite simply. We spend a lot of money on these and the pavement has to perform for a certain period of time. We weren't happy with the way the asphalt was placed so we had to redo it."

While Lecoarer said the contractor helped at every step along the way, he said the main problem was the quality of the initial product they placed on the ground.

Councillors raised other issues including the size of signage and the possibility of adding a 'no right turn sign' on Newcastle and Highway 35.

Deputy-Reeve Jim McMahon said he would rather have a sign added

Village Green to sprout a new look

by ALLISON TAYLOR
Times staff

A few residents of Minden Hills are banding together to bring new life to the Village Green

Jeanne Anthon, Ann Cherry and Pat Campbell requested that Minden Hills council allow the group to act as an ad hoc committee of council in order to develop and enhance the area commonly known as the Village Green, located beside the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce on Minden's Main Street. The area hosts the weekly farmer's market on Saturdays in the summer months.

"We want to research the options and consider the potential cost, including fundraising ideas," Anthon said on behalf of the committee. "We would like to turn this space into an attractive location in the community."

When council first purchased the land several years ago, the area used to be considered an eyesore, Anthon said.

In that time several groups have considered millions of ideas for the space, including gazebos and gardens. "It was meant to be much more than it is," she said.

Anthon said her group wanted to move the area to the next level.

With endless research, including available funding from outside the township, Anthon said there are several avenues the group could pursue.

She presented council with a photo of a similar park space in Peterborough, just to demonstrate a few of the possibilities.

"There are lots of cases to make about what this kind of space could add to a community," she said.

The relationship between the ad hoc group and council would be similar to any other committee of council, Anthon said. Any requests for funding would return to the council table for discussion.

Councillor Peter Oyler asked Anthon about past projects for the same green space, mainly the Linnea Baynton plan that was once developed.

Anthon said that the Baynton project was an ambitious plan and would have to be phased in, but they would use it as a guideline.

Seniors housing one of the suggestions for the Dorset school

by ALLISON TAYLOR
Times staff

Minds are in motion, brain juices are flowing and ideas are flying around Dorset this week, as the community starts to come up with possible uses for the Dorset School property.

After hosting an open house forum at the Dorset School and the Dorset Heritage Museum Sept. 22 to get input from the community on how to best use the Dorset School Property, the Algonquin Highlands Special Projects Committee is feeling very encouraged, says Chairperson Jan McDonald.

"The big thing for us was to get the community involved and to get their input," McDonald said on the phone last week. "The school is vacant and it's a tremendous facility in our village and by opening the doors and letting people walk around, we wanted people to see the potential of the property. By walking through they can also feel part of the process, and at the same time we can raise awareness of our project."

The township recently purchased the vacant Dorset School property. Councillor Kerry Lock has mentioned numerous possibilities at council in the past including turning the school house into a retirement facility. Council decided to establish the special projects committee and charge it with the responsibility of researching and developing possible usages of the Dorset school property.

The township also recently purchased the old mines building across the street from the Dorset School, with the idea of using it as a future museum and information centre.

While the Dorset School is in relatively good shape, the mines building requires a little more handy work.

"There is a lot of work that still needs to be done," McDonald said. "We wanted people to see the work that has already been done by volunteers and also let them see the work that still needs to be done."

The Dorset school has been sitting empty for more than a year. The township of Algonquin Highlands has purchased the building and recently held an open house to encourage people to share their ideas on its future uses.

Both McDonald and Lock said the public walk about was very useful for both the committee and the council.

A varied group of individuals came from all over the Haliburton County including Oxtongue, Carnarvon and Haliburton. They also drove from Orillia, Bracebridge and Huntsville. Written responses were also accepted from people who couldn't attend the event.

Over 40 people signed the guest book and people were lined up out the door, McDonald said.

As a result of the good public response, the committee found a number of useful suggestions including affordable senior housing.

"There was a lot of representation from seniors and a lot of the seniors put a senior spin on it," McDonald said. "We don't have affordable housing for seniors in Dorset and many of them thought it would be a good use of the property."

She said she was talking to a couple from Oxtongue who want to stay in the rural area in their retirement years; if there were apartments or other senior housing available, then they could.

"The school house is in close proximity to Dorset's wonderful facilities," McDonald said. "It is also within close walking distance of the recreational centre, the library and even the general store."

Another idea being tossed around was to turn the building into an adult re-training centre or private school. For example, someone could teach private classes on dry walling and then the class could use their skills right on the building itself.

"There were quite a few creative ideas and that's why we wanted to go to the community," McDonald said.

McDonald says the next step is to go through all the suggestions and to categorize them and glean some of the main ideas. The group will host another public information session on November 25 to present the ideas to the community.

Letters can still be sent to the Special Projects Committee, Township of Algonquin Highlands, RR2, Minden, Ontario, K0M 2K0, or drop them in at the Township office in Dorset on a Tuesday or Thursday.

Breast screening program gets health unit's support

by ALLISON TAYLOR
Times staff

Confidence in the Ontario Breast Screening Program was expressed by directors at the Haliburton, Kawartha, Pine Ridge District Health Unit board meeting held in Haliburton last Thursday.

Marjorie Oke, from the Campbellford office, gave a report to the board about the status of cancer screening programs. A OBSP official screening site has been established at the Campbellford hospital but she says it has been slow going reaching their goal of screening 75 per cent of women in their area between the ages of 50-69.

"There has been a lot of controversy about breast self-exams and the recommendation has been lowered (by a study conducted by Toronto doctors) The next controversy is who do we screen?" says Oke. "There has been a variety of studies to say mammography is valuable. We look for miracles from screens and they're not fool-proof."

She says women in a younger age bracket from 40 to 49 should have access to yearly not biannual mammograms because two years is too long to wait for what has been known to be a fast spreading cancer.

She says part of the problem is women can self-refer for a mammogram and many go out of the district for their health care.

Alex Hukowich, HKPR Medical Officer of Health, says that is where the health unit comes in their role not to do the actual screening but to promote breast screening.

Another problems is women who are phoning to make an appointment may run into receptionists at hospitals, Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay also does screening, that can not switch people over directly to a dedicated line at the OBSP office, says Oke.

"We have a shortage of radiologists, technicians and a real shortage of doctors," says Oke.

She explained some doctors will not do breast exams or pap smears to test for cervical cancer. This problem will partially be addressed by a new family health initiative that will make the procedure mandatory for doctors to perform. The other biggest problem she says is many women are "orphans" who do not have a doctor to suggest they get exams or to help to interpret the results.

In the case of cervical cancer, it can be screened through routine pap smears. Oke says they are hoping for a standardized program similar to breast screening.

"Cervical cancer is almost one hundred per cent preventable. Women should be having a pap smear once every three years. Some don't because there are still doctors who say you're too old or you've had the same partner for 30 years don't worry about it," she says.

Most cases, she says, are caused by the sexually transmitted disease human papillomaviruses HPV which is found in a majority of women but only 15 of 70 HPV are associated with cervical cancer. The disease may be contracted without a person having multiple partners and teenaged girls may be more susceptible.

Hukowich says it is an on-going frustration because that 160 women die annually from cervical cancer but it is a slow growing cancer and very treatable. He says he has written letters to the provincial coroner's office requesting that there be investigations when women die from cervical cancer to try and find the answer but he has yet to receive a response.

"There are (approximately) 160 women dying annually, coroners should be investigating. Yet there is a single death from West Nile Virus and the result is a coroner's investigation when it is death from a natural cause and would normally not be investigated," he says.

Hukowich added it is irrational to him that there are different standards applied to what the government and health profession chooses to take action on.

He and Oke agreed there should be immediate action to improve bowel, colorectal and cervical cancer screening. Hukowich says there is not clear evidence that prostate cancer screening as it exists now is as effective as the screening methods for these other cancers.

Board lobbies for changes in funding

Trillium Lakelands District School Board set out its reasons why the province needs to change its funding formula at public forum hosted by the committee reviewing education funding.

"We presented our side of the story, which is the reality of the funding formula," says board chair Rick Johnson. "The issues that affect us are of a rural nature - transportation costs, equality in small schools, inadequate staffing. The committee has to understand that every board has very different needs - and it's unlikely that a formula can take all of our differences into account."

"All of the parents who have come forward to the board with transportation concerns within the past four years will be represented at the table," said Director of Education, David Hill.

Trillium Lakelands also presented a very strong case for special education funding to support the level of programming that it has in place. The board has gone through a very rigorous auditing process laid out by the Ministry, and has been 100% successful in demonstrating student need. The additional funding that should have resulted has not yet been received.

"Essentially, we're looking to receive the money that we've proven is needed," said Johnson. "We've gone through the Ministry's own process - and so far, it doesn't look as though that process is working."

Buckle up

The next couple of weeks, the local constabulary will be targeting those drivers who venture onto the highways and byways without wearing their seatbelts.

Like them or hate them, seatbelts do save lives. That's why it is provincially mandated that they be worn.

The odds of becoming a statistic as a direct result of not wearing a seatbelt may be lower than, say Russian roulette, but it is a risk that is completely unnecessary.

Don't give the officer a hard time if you get pulled over at a seatbelt check. Police officers don't make the laws, they merely enforce them. If you are stopped and you are not wearing your seatbelt, you have nobody to blame but yourself.

Note: The following pointers on how to deal with an officer at a seatbelt check are intended as a guide only. Use at your own risk.

If you want to make it a little easier for the officer to write the ticket without feeling badly about separating you from $110 of your hard-earned cash and a couple of demerit points, simply remind him that you, as a taxpayer, are his employer. Tell him he should be out there catching "real" criminals. You might cite a few examples of crimes in the immediate area that are deserving of the attention that is currently being squandered by harassing you.

Explain that you are a personal friend of his commanding officer and that he will be in deep trouble if he doesn't reconsider and let you off with a warning.

Tell him you are on a first name basis with the reeve, warden, MPP, MP or even the prime minister, and that a word from you to any one of these influential people could have serious consequences in regard to the status of his employment. Or at the very least, whether or not he can reasonably expect to be considered should he attempt to advance to a higher level in the chain of command in his chosen profession. Police officers are always impressed by those who are "well connected." You might, for example, start off by saying something like: "I was on a conference call with Cretch (the PM), Dubya (the Prez), Liz (QE-II) and JP (the Pontiff) the other day and..."

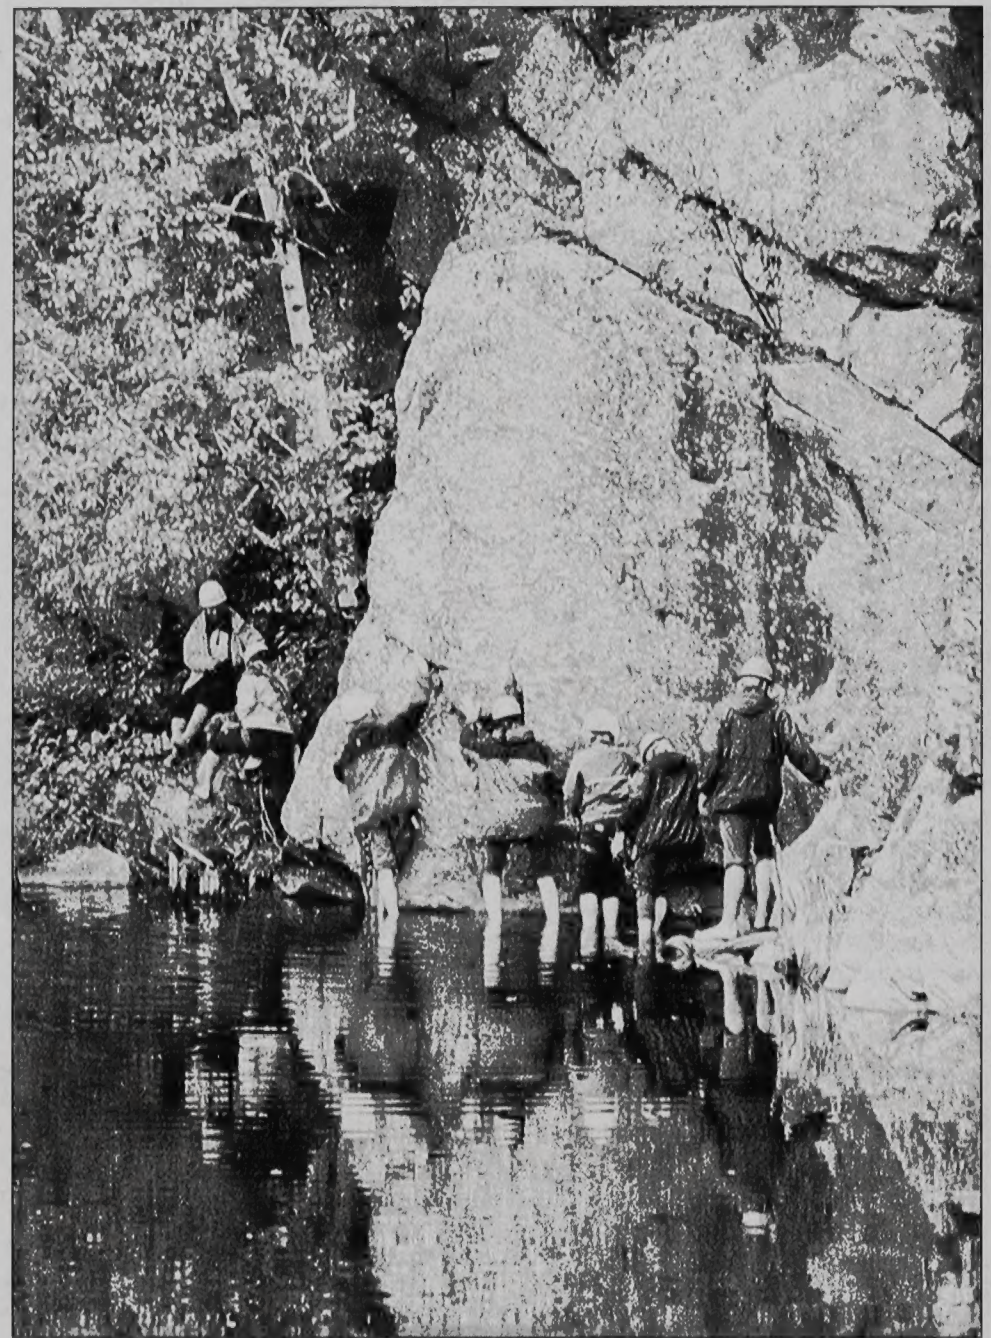

Make him cognizant of the fact that you are a fine upstanding citizen and a pillar of the community, and as such, should be given a measure of latitude in respect of your obvious superior stature. The query, "do you know who I am?"—in a condescending and authoritative tone, can always be counted upon to get an officer's undivided attention.

If that doesn't work, you might try berating him. Police officers tend to respond favourably to insults. Do you suppose Don Rickles ever got a ticket?

Wisecracks are usually welcomed by police officers. You might offer directions to the nearest donut shop with the suggestion that his time might be better spent scarfing down an assortment of jelly filled (to match his waistline), honey glazed (to match his temperament), fritter (to match what he's doing with his time)... you get the picture. Use your imagination, he may have heard one or two of these before. Originality is sure to score bonus points.

If the preceding tips are employed, the officer is sure to grin and wish you a wonderful day as he loads you into a paddy wagon bound for the Crowbar Hotel.

Community responds to asphalt plant threat with passion and strength

To the Editor:

I think "taking it for granted" is the only conceivable explanation why someone wouldn't be adamantly opposed to allowing an asphalt plant in God's country. (Either that, or they're in it for the money, or maybe they haven't done any research to find out how obnoxious these things really are.)

Luckily, when push comes to shove, there are a lot of people in the Highlands who don't take anything for granted.

The real story of Haliburton Versus The Smokestack isn't about air pollution or lawyers or politics or newspapers, it's about people. It's about community. When news of Royel Paving's plans to build an asphalt plant in Carnarvon broke, people from all over the Highlands immediately rallied. Never have I seen so many people react so quickly with such passion. They collected more than 1,200 names on petitions in a matter of a few weeks. They set up booths in front of local stores. They went door to door handing out flyers. One woman took it upon herself to call every 489 phone number in the telephone book (if she missed you, she apologizes but she finally ran out of steam!). Some people shadowed politicians. Others surveyed homeowners in the area of the Royel Paving plant near Lindsay, or investigated real estate prices or phoned local resorts. Someone built a website (www.change-haliburton.com). One woman came to a meeting breathlessly saying she couldn't

UN finally throws a strike

With tensions mounting in the Middle East, terrorism threats to the free world and the spectre of weapons of mass destruction in Iraq, it's easy to dismiss the United Nations as a do-nothing, weak-kneed regulatory body that doesn't stand up to the bullies of this world. But, if you ask me, a recent decision has changed all that.

That's because the U.N. has finally stopped waffling and has boldly addressed one of the great injustices of our time. Of course, I'm referring to the barbaric practice of dwarf tossing.

In case you don't know, dwarf tossing is a sport that originated in Australia where men are men, barbecues are barbecues, and sheep and shrimp are very nervous. A participant's main objective is to toss helmeted and padded little people as far as humanly possible within the confines of a bar or disco. With the exception of mud-wrestling, what could be more wholesome or entertaining?

Well, the government of France thinks a whole lot of things. That's why that country stepped forward and declared this to be in very bad taste. And this is from a country that worships Jerry Lewis' cinematic efforts. Though I'm not overly fond of croissants or mime, I happen to agree in this case. I've always maintained that any activity that borne out of alcohol and bad dancing ought to be outlawed. And this is exactly what France did.

But, soon after, a 3' 10" French stuntman challenged his country's denial of his God-given right to be tossed great distances by burly men who frequent discos and bars. Maybe it's because he landed on his head one too many times but the little fellow felt so wronged that he took his case all the way to the UN human rights commission where, thankfully, he lost his challenge.

I, for one, am happy. Look, I'm not exactly a dwarf but, at 5'3", I'm not about to join the National Basketball Association either. To be honest, I've never been tossed by anyone yet. But this possibility is one of the primary reasons why I never fulfilled a lifelong dream of riding a kangaroo across the outback of Australia. And, I have a hard time believing that I'm the only one who has had this fantasy shattered.

Yet now, because of this momentous ruling, short people such as myself never have to feel nervous while wading through taller company towards the bar or dance floor. Once again we can enjoy the pleasure of slow dancing with tall, buxom women without the dread of being pulled away for an impromptu game of catch.

Steve Galea

Loaded for bear

Life has a funny way of getting your attention. For Isaac Newton, it was an apple on the noggin. For Archimedes, it was noticing how the water level rose when he got into the bathtub.

For Troy Hurtubise, it was getting knocked flat by a grizzly bear he calls The Old Man.

It happened on the banks of Humidity Creek in northern British Columbia, back in 1984. Hurtubise was by himself, panning for gold along a creek, when he looked up and saw, staring back at him, a grizzly big enough to block out the sun.

The bear was so big and so powerful, it sent Hurtubise sprawling with a blow from its snout. Hurtubise was reasonably certain that he was living through his last few moments on earth, but the bear, unaccountably, lost interest and strolled off into the bush.

Needless to say, what really rattled him was the feeling of absolute helplessness that washed over him when he faced that bear. He couldn't run, he couldn't hide, and the idea of fighting back was ludicrous.

Personally, I am quite comfortable with the knowledge that even a puny grizzly could kick my butt in a nanosecond, but not Troy Hurtubise. He resolved that day to figure out a way that he could stand up, unarmed, in front of a wild grizzly, and live to tell about it.

Thus began Project Grizzly – one man's personal quest to create a grizzly-proof suit. Hurtubise retired to his basement workshop and went to work. He's worked his way through several prototypes – from early models incorporating not much more than hockey equipment and duct tape to Robocop-like suits of armour made from heavy-gauge aluminum, stainless steel, high-tech plastic, titanium – you name it.

And he's built some pretty tough suits. Suits that could withstand: a blast from a 12-gauge shotgun at 20 feet; a 150-foot drop off the Niagara Escarpment; 18 different encounters with a three-ton pickup going 30 miles an hour; and assault by a 350-lb log swinging down from 30 feet up in a tree. The suits survived, and so did Hurtubise who was inside them.

His latest model – he calls it the Ursus Mark VII – is more like a lunar landing craft than a body suit. It contains an air conditioning unit, protective airbags, robotic hands, a built-in computer and a video screen which allows the wearer to have 360° vision without moving his head. Hurtubise, who must strip to his shorts and cover his body with Vaseline just to get into the Ursus Mark VII, figures he's put more than 1,600 hours and over $200,000 into this model alone.

ARTHUR BLACK

Columnist

That's enough to earn him a spot in the Guinness Book of World Records for having the world's most expensive research suit, but it still doesn't answer the only question that really matters – is Ursus Mark VII tough enough to withstand an attack from an enraged bear?

That's Hurtubise's big problem right now – he can't find a suitable dancing partner. Pickup trucks, swinging logs, even a gang of toughs with baseball bats and crowbars are old hat now. He wants to meet a bear. The thing is, bears in captivity don't have the untamed edge that makes a grizzly in the wild such an awesome force of nature.

But wild grizzlies are hard to find. Especially if you're clomping around in a high-tech suit of armour.

Still, should you happen to find yourself on the banks of Humidity Creek sometime and you spot a critter that looks like a cross between The Michelin Man and a Marvel Comics Action Figure – pay it no mind. That's just Troy Hurtubise looking for a rematch.

Asphalt plant would put all of Highlands' assets at risk stay but held out $100 in cash and said this was the best she could do – and I don't mean to sound judgmental but she didn't look like the kind of person who could easily afford to give that much money. I almost cried.

Still others did serious environmental research, hired lawyers, met with fire department officials, booked halls, baked cookies and made phone call after phone call.

These are really, really good people. I've never met such good people and I have Royel Paving to thank, in a way, for making their acquaintance.

I also want to thank the councillors of the Township of Algonquin Highlands for their brave decision to pass an interim control by-law. I had faith all along that Eleanor Harrison, Don Shortreed, Kerry

Lock, Tom Gardner and Jim Hicks would do the right thing and they didn't disappoint. These people have a record of being progressive when it comes to environmental issues – I'm proud of them and proud to live in Algonquin Highlands.

Those who live in other townships in the county might do well to find out how their own councillors feel about asphalt plants.

In fact, the people who have come together to win this initial victory against the asphalt plant are not stopping now. The fight is just beginning. What we have is a reprieve; breathing space. We need to use the year ahead to do everything we can to make sure an asphalt plant is never built. Plans are in the works for another Saturday community meeting to follow up with the committee work already begun. So watch the local papers for notice of time and dates.

In closing, I would like to personally thank everyone who has worked so hard in this fight. Like me, they understand that an asphalt plant is not the kind of industry we want or need in Haliburton.

Those who say we need asphalt plants because we like to drive on paved roads therefore we need a local asphalt plant haven't considered one obvious thing: there are already paved roads in Haliburton. Where did all that asphalt come from? If a new asphalt plant doesn't get built in the Highlands, does that mean Highlanders will have to drive on dirt roads again? Don't be ridiculous.

There is a place for everything in this world. Farmers grow vegetables in the Holland Marsh because of the rich soil but everyone knows Haliburton's rocky terrain and thin soil cannot support agriculture on any kind of scale. Toronto is home to big business and industry because it is located on Lake Ontario and is accessible to ships, airplanes and to a vast population rich in skills. But Haliburton doesn't have these things so it would be ridiculous to think the Highlands could ever become a centre of industry. What Haliburton has that is unique is a growing tourist industry. We have an embarrassment of riches: sparkling, clean lakes; rolling hills; dark forests; clean air.

We worry about hosting events to keep the tourists coming but events are not what bring people to the Highlands – they come because it is beautiful, it is peaceful, it is clean.

We would be stupid beyond belief to put this asset in peril.

Minden County Town Museum draws museum workers from across Canada

by CAROL MILES
Special to The Times

Two different courses are drawing museum and gallery workers to Minden the week of October 1 to 4.

On Tuesdays, Minden County Town Museum Co-ordinator Carol Miles has organized two workshops, one on museum mount making and another on mannequin making with instructors from Huntsville and Ottawa.

A three-day Ontario Museum Association course on Exhibit Design will take place at the museum and gallery from Wednesday through Friday. This course, one of the nine courses that leads to a certificate in museum studies qualification, brings together 25 participants from as far as Red Lake. Miles has been taking these courses and completing the assignments herself over the last year and a half and aims to earn her certificate by this spring. Both the Tuesday sessions and the OMA course are fully registered with lengthy waiting lists.

Course directors Art and Sandy Lucs of Vilnis Design Works will be leading the group through the exhibition process from planning to production, installation and visitation over three very full days. Guest speakers will present workshops on conducting visitor studies and on interactive exhibits. By hosting the course, Miles plans to benefit from expert advice that she can apply at the museum.

Community museums across the province are expected to meeting the Ministry of Culture's Exhibition Standard by next spring in order to qualify for their Community Museum Operating Grant Program. Participants in this course will be better prepared to do this.

Miles has organized accommodation and meals for the out-of-towners working with many local groups. Haliburton County's impressive fall colours are courtesy of Mother Nature.

For more information call Miles at the museum 286-3154, or at home 286-3588, or via email at simmons@interhop.net.

The Agnes Jamieson Gallery in Minden is the host gallery for the Haliburton County Studio Tour. The artists on this year's tour have samples of their work on display. Gallery Administrator Dianne Graham checks out the work of a few of the artists. Part of the gallery is also dedicated to the work of Andre Lapine.

Two exhibits are currently on display at the Agnes Jamieson Gallery in Minden.

Artists and artisans participating in the Studio Tour have samples of their work in one room of the gallery. Dianne Graham, the gallery administrator, says the display gives Tour patrons a preview of the type of work each of the artists does.

"Everybody on the Tour brought in something," Graham said. "It gives patrons the opportunity to look - see what catches their interest - and even purchase something before the Tour. Some people use this preview to plan their route for the Studio Tour."

The display will remain until October 6.

The other display is a collection of Andre Lapine works. The display includes some pieces from the gallery's own Lapine collection, as well as some on loan from other owners. The Lapine display includes a painting of Andre Lapine by Nellie Wilson Patrick (circa 1940), which was recently acquired by the Agnes Jamieson Gallery.

Graham is thrilled with the interest that has been shown in the Lapine collection. She said people have come hundreds of miles specifically to view the gallery's collection.

Funding shortage grows at health services

by SHERYL LOUCKS
Times staff

The following briefs are from last Thursday's board meeting of the Haliburton Highland Health Services.

Underfunding Grows

Cathy Outram, financial director, said that according to a letter from the Ministry of Health and Long Term Care, they have now risen to 45 per cent under funded.

"They keep changing the expected costs so the formula changes," Outram says by way of explanation as to why she did not reach the same percentage while crunching numbers that the ministry did.

Keith Sansford, HHHS chief executive officer, says the joint executive committee with CEOs from Peterborough Regional, Ross Memorial, Campbellford, Haliburton and Port Hope hospitals have been looking at the funding formula.

He says they have identified $5 million needed to bring the five hospitals up to a proper standard of funding.

X-ray help

Lynne Johnston, director of acute and ambulatory care, informed the board the x-ray technician shift shortage has been covered temporarily.

Johnston has been in contact with a woman who is "keen" on working for them but they have to wait until November to hear if she has passed her exams.

She was asked what connection this woman has to the area to induce her to stay here if hired and Johnston explained the woman has a fiancée who is here.

Currently, she explained, they are using three technicians part-time, one from Huntsville and two from Bracebridge to cover weekends.

"I wouldn't want us to be complacent. This (shortage) will come up again," Johnston warned the board.

Foundation

Dale Walker submitted a report from the HHHS Foundation. As of Aug. 31, a total of $4.7 million has been raised with $364,455 in outstanding pledges, leaving a capital loan balance of $1.79 million.

There are still tickets left for the Oct. 5 gala at the Wigamog Inn Resort entailing a night of 50s music and food.

A volunteer appreciation dinner will be held on Nov. 1 at the Haliburton Royal Canadian Legion.

Christmas open houses are planned for No. 20 in Haliburton and Nov. 27 in Minden.

Information Technology

A lengthy discussion ensued during the meeting about the state of HHHS's information technology, or IT systems, and what the best option is for improvement. Sansford has recommended that the board enter into an agreement with Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay.

Sansford explained he and Cathy Outram had a meeting with Peterborough Regional Hospital staff about going with their IT provider, Meditech, but before the company does a cost estimate they want a pretty solid commitment.

Sansford is recommending against it for financial reasons because it will cost approximately $200,000 to go with Lindsay and likely more than $500,000 to go with Meditech.

Don DeMaio, board member, says HHHS has paid up to $175,000 to pay for errors caused by not having a proper IT system on top of daily staff frustration with equipment that does not work. He says from an operational perspective they just have to get on with it and bite the capital cost bullet.

Board chair Jack Brezina proposed that they informally agree that an IT provider will be decided on and the project moved forward by the end of the year which was agreed to by the board. Sansford was given authority by the board to consult with an IT professional working with the county and move forward as he sees fit.

Community health

Sansford informed the board the ministry is showing no interest in developing a Community Health Centre. He says there is no sense in using resources to develop a proposal for a CHC if the government is not interested in backing it.

Dave Coulson says he is aware of a new CHC that has been funded in Grand Bend but said that it may have more to do with the fact that it fell in the riding of the associate minister of health.

Charron says to his knowledge there are 150 communities on the request list for a CHC meaning they could be in a for a long wait.

Other board members suggested they put together a basic proposal in order to be prepared.

Keith Sansford is HHHS chief executive officer.

Trent Severn waterway levels

The following is a report of water flows in the Trent Severn Waterway.

The Haliburton Lakes declined to 47.9 per cent on Monday, September 23. This was two per cent lower than the 27-year average for that date and the decline rate was near the normal of 3.5 per cent per week.

The flow has been reduced as the Kawarthas are holding well. Only a little rain was received but cooler temperatures may be beginning to reduce losses.

The Kawarthas are nearly steady in their navigation ranges and the Otonabee flow remains near its minimum.

The level of Lake Simcoe/Couchiching is on its the rule curve with the outflow down to about half the September normal at about 12 cubic metres per second. The Black River has declined to less than one cubic metre per second where its monthly average is 4.5 cubic metres per second.

[Red Hawk Roundup]

Hawks spread their wings

by JERRY GROZELLE
Times staff

The HHSS Senior girls field hockey team split a pair of home games last week. The Red Hawks earned a 1-0 win over the Adam Scott Lions and gave up a 3-2 decision to the Crestwood Mustangs.

Kerri Matysek scored the winning goal against Adam Scott, with the assist going to Cassie Kulas.

Shyanne Watson notched both Red Hawk goals against Crestwood. Assists went to Joann Varty and Kulas.

Hubbert said her team played amazingly well in a recent tournament against AAA teams. The Red Hawks played three games and although they didn't win any of them, the biggest loss was by only two goals. She was very pleased with her team's performance.

Mitsunori Takao and Matt Flowers scored a goal each as the HHSS Senior boys soccer team blanked the Lindsay Collegiate Spartans 2-0. Coach Rob Gervais said the Red Hawks controlled the game, playing most of the contest in the Spartans' end.

The LCVI Spartans have a powerhouse Junior boys soccer team, as the Red Hawks learned first hand. The Spartans dominated the game for a 5-0 win.

Red Hawks coach Mark Flatman noted that this year is a rebuilding season for the Junior team. He credits the summer league in Lindsay for keeping the Spartans in shape and preparing them for the high school soccer season.

Flatman said the local youth soccer leagues in Stanhope and Haliburton are great, but there is a gap, with no organized summer league for players in their early teens. He would like to see someone step forward and get a league started for that age group.

Flatman said his Junior team is already showing some improvement. The Junior Red Hawks won an exhibition game and are looking for their first league win.

High Five

Right: Mitsunori Takao receives a pat on the back from Matt Flowers for scoring the go-ahead goal against LCVI. Flowers eventually got the insurance marker. The Senior Boys Soccer won, 2-0 earning goalkeeper Matt Moore's first shutout of the season.

Far right: A Hawk player rises to the challenge of taking the ball away from his opponent.

The Local Experts™

Senior football team boasts high spirits

by JERRY GROZELLE
Times staff

A desire to learn and improve is important to any sports team. The Haliburton Highlands Secondary School Senior football Red Hawks have shown those qualities over the first two games of the season.

The latest learning experience for the Senior Red Hawks was last Thursday when they tangled with the Adam Scott squad in Peterborough. Although the Red Hawks came home on the short end of a 37-0 score, they weren't defeated in spirit.

"We only have one player who has serious experience at the senior level," said coach Tim Davies. "We're going to get better with each game. We're better now than we were at the first of the season. Gains have been made."

Davies is pleased with the character of the members of his team. Although they are disappointed to lose, they are ready to give it their best shot in the next game.

"The other teams are better refined with their experience," Davies said. "But we'll compete. We'll get it together. We had some nice runs and some nice passes.

We're adapting to senior level football."

Davies said Joel Johnson had a good game on defense. "He came close to getting the most 'animal' (defensive) points in the game," Davies said.

The Red Hawks will have a chance to test their mettle this Friday at 1 p.m. when they go to Peterborough to take on Thomas A. Stewart Secondary School Griffins.

Juniors tie Adam Scott Lions

The Red Hawks Junior football team went to Peterborough last week to do battle with the Adam Scott Lions. It was a seesaw struggle that ended with darkness descending, after two overtime sessions, in a 19-19 draw.

"Both teams were exhausted by the end of the second overtime," said Red Hawks coach Bruce Griffith. "We were both happy to take a point.

"It was a very clean, exciting game with few penalties," Griffith said.

The Red Hawks opened the scoring in the first quarter with Kevin Crofts crossing the Lions' line. Kenton McGann kicked the convert.

Adam Scott closed the gap to 7-6 with an unconverted

TD and went ahead with another to end the quarter with a 12-7 lead. The Lions added a safety in the second quarter and with 20 seconds left in the fourth, Matt Roberts scored a touchdown. The convert, which would have won the game, was missed. At the end of regulation time, the score was tied 19-19.

Adam Scott put the pressure on by scoring a touchdown in the first overtime frame. The convert attempt failed.

The Red Hawks responded when quarterback Justin Abbs completed a pass to Roberts for the touchdown. Again, the convert attempt was wide, forcing the second overtime.

Both teams had opportunities to put the game away, but neither was able to capitalize. An interception by Roberts in the second overtime frame saved the Red Hawks from coming home pointless. Fumble recoveries by Jason Nicholson and Brendan White were also key to the HHSS defense.

Griffith said several goal-line stands helped to keep the Red Hawks in the game.

The Juniors will play the late game (3 p.m.) in Peterborough against the Griffins.

Quitters could be winners in contest

Haliburton County smokers who want to quit now have great incentive - a chance to win a new car.

A new Honda Civic DX-G is the grand prize in the Quit Smoking 2002 Contest announced yesterday. The province-wide contest is designed to help smokers set a quit date, prepare themselves and then stop smoking by Oct. 15 for at least one month. The contest is open to Ontario residents who are daily smokers aged 19 years and older. Participants must register by midnight Oct. 15, quit smoking by Oct. 15 and remain smoke-free until Nov. 15 to be eligible to win the car or several other prizes.

"It's not easy to quit smoking," says Anne Marie Cyr, a public health nurse with the Haliburton, Kawartha, Pine Ridge District Health Unit. "It helps if you are mentally prepared for the challenge and have supports in place to help when the going gets tough. An incentive, like the prizes offered through the Quit Smoking Contest, can also help motivate people to quit smoking."

"Even if they don't win one of the prizes they will win by gaining improved health, and a sense of accomplishment by having tackled a very difficult habit to break," Cyr says.

Participants have approx. four weeks to prepare themselves and work through the stages that lead to successful quitting. Cyr says a smoker who wants to quit should begin by thinking about why they smoke, when they want to quit and how they will cope with the urges and pressures to smoke after they have quit. Contest participants are required to enlist the help of a non-smoking buddy who will give them support along the way. Buddies of confirmed winners also win a cash prize.

For more information about the contest or to obtain an entry form contact the Health Unit office at 705-457-1391. Smokers can also enter online at www.quitsmokingontario.ca.

†Minimum investment of $2,500 for RSP and $5,000 outside an RSP. Not available within a RIF. Athletes in the spotlight

Mitsunori Takao, striker

Striker Mitsunori Takao, an exchange student from Japan, is a welcome addition to the HHSS Red Hawks Senior Boys soccer team. Playing in two of the team's three games so far this season, the 17 year-old has dominated the scoring, with three of the Red Hawks' four goals in those two games. Coach Rob Gervais said Takao has good speed and he uses it to his team's advantage. Gervais added that the Grade 12 student is "very coachable."

Cassie Kulas, field hockey captain

Cassie Kulas, 17, is the captain of the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School Red Hawks Senior Girls' Field Hockey team. Coach Traci Hubbert says Kulas dominates the midfield position and calls her the technically strongest player who provides skill development leadership. A member of the provincial field hockey team for the past three seasons, Kulas also plays soccer and badminton. Hubbert calls her a pretty well rounded athlete. "Her skill is her strength," Hubbert said.

New things growing in Stanhope

STANHOPE LIFE

Pat McNinch
489-1881

Something new is in the air of Carnarvon, and it isn't asphalt. Gina Atkinson, owner of Pine Reflections on Highway 35, has begun construction of a new, 1700 sq. foot Garden Center. It will be an extension of her gift shop beside the Carnarvon Garage. Gina says this will be no ordinary Garden Center and will feature hanging plants exclusively designed and hand picked by Dan Sant of Kleinberg's George Sant Nurseries. The Sant Nurseries are wholesalers whose products are consistently of above average quality, health and hardiness.

The new facility will also feature garden trellises and ornaments, water fountains and unique floral arrangements. Gina is considering many other exciting possibilities for the Garden Center, but she wants to maintain an element of surprise. Well, I won't spill all the beans, but I can promise that customers will be absolutely delighted by the final results of this energetic lady's creative imagination when the Center officially opens in the Spring.

The 'Soup Kitchen' will be open on Saturday, October 5, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., during the upcoming Studio Tour. As in previous years, the Stanhope Recreation Committee is sponsoring a great place to relax from your travels around the county. You can drop by the Stanhope Community Center, right beside the Fire Hall on North Shore Road, for a bowl of delicious soup and a sandwich. Many crafts are also on display and for sale at the Center. Folks have always enjoyed this welcome break from the busy round of artists' studios, and the food is great. Just come on in and bring your appetite.

Friendly, efficient service... always!

There's a saying "if you need something done ask a busy person." This is certainly true of this year's recipient of the Kinmount Lions Citizen of the Year Award. Joyce Brown has made many outstanding contributions to our community through her involvement on the Library Advisory Committee, Kinmount Committee for Planning and Economic Development, Royal Canadian Legion Branch 441 Women's Auxiliary, Kinmount and Area Medical Committee, United Church Women and the newly established Kinmount Community Centre Management Board. Owner of Highland Trail Lodge on Salerno Lake Joyce, a devoted mother and grandmother, is a wonderful example of someone who has set her priorities to balance these volunteer commitments with her dedication to family and friends. Congratulations Joyce on an honour well deserved.

Here are the results of the Minden and District Horticultural Society's Sunflower Contest. Winner in the largest head category was the entry of Pat Bradburn at 16 inches, second May Stevenson 14.5 and third Winnie Kasepчук 12.5. For the tallest, it was May Stevenson first at 11 feet 2.5 inches, closely followed by husband Basil's entry 11 feet 2 inches, then Reg Holloway 10 feet 5 inches. Pauline Plooard took honourable mention in both categories. A challenge to all society members: bring your pumpkins to be weighed at McMahon Feeds on Oct. 5 at 10 a.m. Watch for results next week.

Thursday, September 19 euchre at the Minden Legion Branch 636: Ruth Kellett had the most lone hands for the ladies and Marcel Roussel for the gents. High scorers for men/ladies were Marie Dennie and John Mallon, while Flo Roussel and Don Burch took second high spots. Other prizes went to Bess Cox, Frank Campagnolo, Mart Cole, Don Burch and Lynda Jones.

Friday, September 20 bid euchre at Club 35, Halls Lake: Tom Pearson, Dorothy Walters and Gerry Schad had single moonshots, with Sharon Evans taking two. Dorothy Walters led the pinks, with 271 followed by Sharon Evans 253 and Mary Pearson 245. Rob Evans topped the white cardholders with 286, Gerry Schad was second at 251 and Frank Campagnolo third 233. The hidden score holder was Henry Ramsden. I was delighted when Mary Pearson brought Henry and his wife Claire, her visitors from Yorkshire, England, to the Kinmount Artisans Marketplace. They have enjoyed their visit, the lovely September weather at the lake, and hospitality received.

Friday, September 20 duplicate bridge at Echo Hills, Haliburton: First in north/south with 56% were Vange Croucher and Ross Fletcher, followed by Ev Morgan and Judy Neiman at 54%. East/west winners were Joyce Burtch and Joan Galley 59%, with the team of Hal Beach and Nick Lehoczy second at 57%.

Ruth reports that the monthly Pot Luck was once again a great success.

Monday, September 23 euchre at Club 35, Halls Lake: Ken Wallace reports that Mary Schad held the lone hand with high scores for ladies/men going to Olive Jones and Harry Randell. Low scorers were Christine Macartney and Wally Harpur, while Harry Randell also won the baloney.

NOTICE OF A PUBLIC MEETING TO INFORM THE PUBLIC OF A PROPOSED ZONING BY-LAW AMENDMENT

TAKE NOTICE that the Council for The Corporation of the Township of Minden Hills will be holding a public meeting under Section 34 of the Planning Act, R.S.O. 1990, C.P. 13 as amended, to inform the public of a proposed Zoning By-law Amendment.

DATE AND LOCATION OF PUBLIC MEETING

Date: October 31, 2002
Time: 9:00 a.m.
Location: Township of Minden Hills Municipal Office (Council Chambers)
7 Milne Street, Minden, Ontario
Applicant: Janet Abela - RZ-02-03

DETAILS OF THE ZONING BY-LAW AMENDMENT

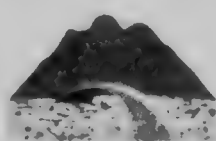

The purpose of the proposed by-law is to amend The Restricted Area (Zoning) By-Law No. 3-78 as amended, to rezone lands described as Part of Lot 2, Concession 2, in the Geographic Township of Snowdon from the Rural (RU) Zone to the Seasonal Residential Exception Ten (RS-10) Zone. The subject lands were granted provisional consent to sever on April 8, 2002 and the Ontario Municipal Board decision issued August 28, 2002. This amendment is required to permit the new lots to be used for seasonal residential purposes in accordance with Restricted Area (Zoning) By-Law 3-78. The purpose of the exception is to recognize the minimum lot area of 0.25 acres, the minimum lot frontage on water of 100 feet, and the minimum main floor elevation for all new or reconstructed habitable buildings and structures of 281.48 metres CGD (Canadian Geodetic Datum).

Any person who attends the meeting shall be afforded an opportunity to make representations in respect of the applications. Council will then use the information collected at this meeting to make a decision on this matter at a future meeting. If you wish to be notified of Council's decision please forward such requests (with forwarding addresses) in writing to the attention of the Planning Administrator.

Hard to keep feet still at pub night

Once again as we write, it is a beautiful autumn day. We certainly cannot complain about the weather.

Last Thursday, the ladies of the Minden Bible Church pleasantly entertained us. They provided us with a delicious variety of homemade goodies and Jack and Ruth Worthington led us in a sing song.

Betty Emslie, Mary Goldsmith, Roy Nichols, Ruby Williams, Lillian Harrison, Harold Orsborn and Margaret Foote accompanied Joan and Dana to Marks Restaurant for a "Luncheon in the Village" on Friday. Our thanks to Minden Taxi for the transportation.

Several residents enjoyed Bingo Saturday evening. Mary Goldsmith was the lucky jackpot winner and Alice Sedgewick, along with Keith Brannigan, also took home prizes.

Sunday evening Hymn Sing was well attended, as was the apple pie and cherry coffee cake serving afterwards. Thanks to Joan, who has made it possible for us to have evening activities on the weekend.

Our newest volunteer, Joy Bain, played the piano and led us in our old favourites sing a long. She is very talented lady, even as a gardener, so she is helping us get our patio pots in order for autumn.

Memorial services were held this week for Hilda Rush, Shirley Shepherd and Harriet Loucks. These ladies are fondly remembered and Barbara Trocewicz helped us to celebrate their lives at service.

We send get well wishes and prayers to Nellie Ranson and Rev. Mervin Everall, who are a little under the weather.

A big Hyland Crest welcome to Audrey Trumbull, Richarda Rogers and Mary Scholz, who have become our newest residents. Ivan Ingram is also spending some time with us. We hope all will enjoy their home here.

Happy Birthday greetings to Pat Pimm, Besse Burk, Jack Hoxie, Doreen Samells and Ernie Hamilton, who celebrated birthdays in September.

The "Gang" entertained us at Pub Night. Don White, Charlie Hadley, Audrey and Ron Sedley, Don Burch and Lloyd Madill provided us with some good old fashioned foot stompin' music. It's hard to keep our feet still when the "Gang" performs.

With the help of Kim Britton, Betty Emslie, Margaret Foote, Hazel Gregory, Harold Orsborn and Maria Pawluch we created a very handsome scarecrow. I guess scarecrows are not supposed to be handsome but all he does is just sit around and takes in all the action. He sits very quiet, but has become quite the conversation piece

Alice Sedgewick and Mary Goldsmith "Whooped" Roy Nichols and Blanche Wright at cards again. A rematch has been called!

Best wishes to Anne Bibby, a long time employee of Hyland Crest, who is retiring and moving to North Bay. We wish her well, and we will miss her.
